THE COURTS.

MR. GLOVER AND THE ELEVATED ROAD. In the trial of the suit brought in the Sume Court by John H. Glover against the Manhattan nd Metropolitan elevated railways an old deed was reduced yesterday by which the city made a grant of ortain land about Rector-st. to Trinity Church. The ap on for the grant was urged by Trinity Church on the ound of its poverty. Mr. Parsons, the counsel for the aintiff, suggested that the entire deed be copied on the Mr. Field-Mr. Parsons wants to introduce an historical incident into the case.

Mr. Parsons-It is a pity that there should not be some interest introduced into the case.

Herman Theis testified that he occupied as a tenant the ground floor of the plaintiff's premises. He denied indignantly that he kept a rum shop, but he admitted that he sold whiskey and brandy. John B. Dye, a real cetate dealer, testified that the property owned by Mr. Blover had been greatly injured by the construction of the elevated railway. But the building of the road had tot affected all property injuriously; for instance, Macy's property in Fourteenth-st. was worth fifty per cent more because of the rallway station in front of it. Property generally in Sixth-ave. had bront of it. Property generally it. Sixth-ave. had been benefited about 25 per cent by the building of the road. Several witnesses testified that Mr. Giover's property had depreciated in value on account of the building of the elevated railway. A long discussion took place in regard to the phintiff's right to give testimony concerning the annoyance to the occupiers of his premises from booke, snoke and cimiers from the treins of the elevated railway. In the course of the argument Mr. Field ascerted that Mr. Glover had no title to the street in front of his premises, and that in buying the fee in it he had done a criminal act. He had bought or attempted to buy an "meorporcal hereditament in the adverse possession of a third party," and this was forbiden by law. Judge lagranam admitted the question. The trial will be continued on Monday.

THE RIGHTS OF RAILWAY PASSENGERS. William Peare some time ago was put off a brain on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railway because he refused to pay his fare. He first offered to the conductor a ticket which entitled the bearer to a ride in the opposite direction from that in which the train was going, and before he was put off tendered the fare in money. The ticket offered to the conductor was the unused part of a return ticket. He alleged that the the unused part of a return ticket. He alleged that the conductor who took up the first part had negligently taken the wrong part. He brought a suit in the Court of Common Pleas and received $3,000 as damages for a wrongful ejection from the train. The General Term yesterday reversed the internal. The General Term the ground that the plaintiff by his conduct had caused the stoppage of the train at an irregular point, and that he could not afterwards regain the right to ride on the train by tendering the fare.

THE RIGHT TO A WHARF.

Judge Wheeler, in the United States Circuit Court, yesterday granted an injunction restraining the Dock Commissioners from building new wharves in front of a wharf owned by Thomas Crocker, on the North River, between Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh-sts. The land on which the wharf was built was sold to Courad Long by the city, in October, 1858. He agreed to build a wharf thereon, and was granted the right to collect the wharfage. It was argued for the city that the lect the wharfage. It was arguer of the early that the only right granted was to the wharf itself, and to collect wharfage while it could be used as a wharf, and that when the State as owner of the soil in frent of it should make such use of that soil as to prevent the use of the wharf for wharf purposes, his rights in that direction would end. The Judge decided that the owner had the right to a wharf as a wharf on mayicable water, and that the public had the right to come to his wharf and best it.

CIVIL NOTES.

The suit of Harold A. Meeks, a schoolboy, who was on one of the trains in the Harlem Tunnel dis-aster, to recover from the New-York, New-Haven and Hartford Railroad Company $2,500 as damages for injuries received in the accident, was compromised yes-terday, the defendants agreeing to the entry of a judg-ment for $2,000, which was paid.

George H. Brouwer, of the firm of Kennedy, Hutchinson & Co., was on the witness standall day yesterday, in the suit for an accounting, before Referee Lyman, in the Federal Building. He corrected the hatment inadvertently made at a previous session, that he h d paid with the cheeks of the firm losses incurred in private speculation.

WHY O'DONOVAN ROSSA CAN'T FIGHT.

Jeremiah O'Donovan, surnamed Rossa, has blood-or water-in his eye, and he is going to harm somebody-if somebody will only lie still and let him. John Daly of Limerick has stirred up the O'Donovan's ire and all the small boys are requested to keep out of the way. A few weeks ago the redoubtable Mr. Daly of Limerick "came over." He had been an agitator-to the extent of a whiskey glass-in the "ould countbry." He thought The O'Donovan the biggest part of this country, and so he landed on him, upstairs in Chambers-A traternal council of two hours resulted, and Rossa at once set Daly down as a true brother, for Daly whispered to Rossa, " Begorra, yees are a gr-r-r-eat man !" Then they went around the corner.

Soon after this John Daly of Limerick fell into the hands of the "skirmishers," and traitor that he was, he whispered among them, "This man Rossa's a crank." The O'Donovan heard of it. He rushed to his editorial room and thundered forth an editorial-writin red ink-deouncing Mr. Daly, and calling on him, in the very best English, to "take back "his vile utterances. Mr. Daly did not " take back." Then, two weeks later, followed a second dynamite bomb entitled: "Tae Skirmishing Trustees' New Mi sioner." Mr. Rossa finding it necesary to go back to Dryden for forcible English. Then came rumors of a meeting, of bomos and explosives, of due's, and everything but deaths. A challengs was sent to the O'Donovan, and even the dynamics,'s friends then feared that he might be driven something desperate, terday a Tamuss reporter timidly opened the Yesterday a Tribusk reporter finishly opened the thri-floor door in Chambers-st., whereon the awful word Kossa was written, and peeped in. Rossa was there. The reporter entered the room slowly, deferentially. The O'Donovan waved him magnificently to a seat. Full fifteen minutes the great calfor took up in straightening out the address of Elien O'Terrellfor his mind takes in small things as well as great ones—and then he turned to the reporter, who stated his business. "Would Mr. Rossa tight!" O'Donovan drew himself proudly together. He meditated a moment. Then he raised his right hand impressively. "Str.," said he with a tinge of sadness in his voice. "I cannot fight a shadow." There was silence. The O'Donovan finally succeeded in breaking it, speaking rapidly, eloquently, definitly (his adversary not being present): "Str.," said the great man—"Str. that man Daly is a traitor. He has been taken in tow by the Skirmishers, and he has belittled me. There there, in that very char the great man—"sir, teat man Daly is a traitor. He has been taken in tow by the Skirmishers, and he has belittled me. There—there, in that very chair you occupy, he sat for two hours one day. And he sat there are her day. Our conversation was friendly. I asked him about no home secrets. Then he went away and denounced me. Here—here is my reply," and the O'Donovan produced a heavily-leaded editorial—marked with red pencil—which he had written in reference to that great matter. "Here is another editorial," he went on conndentially, showing a second black end white and red emanation wherein were extracts from a letter warning the O'Donovan against the awful Daly of Limerick. "And now, sir," said the dynamitist—with the dynamite taken out—"this man has sent me a challenge, by one Meinerny, who came over with him. Fight him i How can I i Can I fight an unsubstantial thing! No sir! But let me tell you this: Go, seek out this man Daly, find his address and take me to him or bring him here, and I, yes I "-looking caultonsly around—"will throw into his face all that I have uttered in my editor as! I cannot seek him out, I d'ar't know where to look for him. He is a shadow. But bring him here—only bring him here, and I—"The great O'Donovan shook his fist ominously, and

The great O'Donovan shook his fist ominously, and gave the reporter a look that chilled the marrow of his bones; so much so that he quickly withdrew.

Kossa waited full five minutes beyond his office hour, and then promptly left the place, sad and disconsolate because his enemy was not led in unto him. And then he disappeared, wrapped in the mystery of his thoughts and in the log of his own greatness.

He was not afraid, for John Daly had fied to Fort Lee.

PROFESSOR DENSLOW ON PROTECTION.

Professor Van Buren Denslow delivered a lecture Wednesday evening on "Protection" before the Rev thue Reform Club of Brooklyn, at the Art Rooms of the Academy of Music. About 200 people were present, smong them being several women. The lecturer spoke for the most part without notes and was carnest and fluent. Trade, he said, was internal and external. The United States had already provided for free trade between the States and hence this was not the question. The first thing to be sought was the highest development of the internal or domestic industry and trade. When a nation had a truly prosperous trade was small the least taxation became a great burden. Protection would develop the domestic trails Mefore 1860, in the so-called "Free Trade period," nearly all the railroads were bankrupt. They used iron rails, and roads were built only at the rate of 800 miles a year. Since 1860 the average construction per annum had been 4,000 miles, and last year it was 8,000. There were now in the United States 112,000 miles of railroad, and it was nearly all laid with steel rails. This was the result of protection. At the present time America was producing more steel rails than England, although the latter had a start of twelve years. England was the devil fish of nations, stretching out one arm over Turkey, another over Ireland, and autother over India. She had crushed the industrial life of three nations, and would do the same to Canada and Austraila but for the fact that the example of the United States had taught those colonies how to resist England's tyranny.

Professor Denslow then exhibited several English and American blankets, showing that America competed favorably with the English in regard to them.

SELLING HIS VOTE FOR A DOLLAR.

The Assembly Committee on Privileges and Elections met yesterday morning at 10 o'clock at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, and resumed the hearing of testimony in the contested election case in the VIIIth Distriet in Kings County. All of the committee were pres ent except Assemblyman Erwin, who is sick. Both the contestant and the respondent were present. Messrs. Wernberg and Britton appeared for David Lindsay, and ex-Senator Ecclesine and Mr. Tomitason for R. E. Connelly. The first witness for Mr. Connelly, the contestant, was John Winters, He saw Lindsay in the vicinity of the polls on election day, between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Lindsay asked him if he had voted. When he replied that he had not, Lindsay gave him $1 and told him to get his ticket of Francis White, who was peddling Lindsay's tickets. He took one of those tickets and voted. Winters, in reply to a question, said that he mentioned the fact of his having received $1 about five minutes afterwards, not thinking that there was any secret about it. He didn't think that there was any harm in it, for he had seen the same thing done for the last twenty-five years.

Mr. Ecclesine then stated that he would introduce pre liminary evidence prior to making a demand that the Assembly ballot box of the Second Election District should be opened. Before this demand was made, John Winters was recalled and subjected to a rigid cross-examination by the counsel for the respondent. Winters sald that he did not know that receiving money for his vote was a criminal off-use or at all out of the way.

Patrick Lyon, a policeman, who was detailed to the Second District, was the next witness. He was followed by Patrolman Peters and Sergeant Buford, who were in charge of the builot-boxes at the close of the were in charge of the bailot-boxes at the close of the election, and also by Captain G. R. Rhodes, of the Seventh Precinct, who also had the care of the ballot-boxes. In the course of his short testimony Captain Rhodes said that the scals were a little scratched and injured in being taken to the Central Office. Henry L. Jewett, inspector of Election, who was the next witness, testified that the ballot-boxes were intact and that he noticed no marks upon them.

The counsel for Mr. Liudsay stated that in their opinion the committee had no legal right to open the ballot-box.

The counsel for Mr. Lindsay stated that in their opinion the committee had no legal right to open the ballot box. If they came to the conclusion that they had such a right, the counsel would make no objection. The chairman of the committee announced that they had decided that the ballet box could not be opened, because sufficient evidence had not been produced to show that the ballet box could not be opened, because sufficient evidence had not been produced to show that the ballets now in it were identical with those cast at the election. After some discussion the committee retired and romained in secret session nearly an hour. On their return the chairman amounced that all but two of the committee were still of the opinion that the ballot-box ought not to be opened.

On the rebuttal, Archelaus Condell, the chairman of the Board of Canyassers of the First District of the Seventeenth Ward, was called. He explained the registry book, and accounted for the presence in tof the ballot marked "Rob Conly." William E. Keenan, a Democratic canyasser, explained in detail how the ballots were counted, and told also who were in the room during the process of counting. Other witness gave unimportant testimony. The committee then adjourned until this morning.

WORK OF THE EXCISE COMMISSIONERS.

The Board of Excise Commissioners had a special meeting yesterday to elect officers for 1883. William P. Mitchell was reelected president, and Morris Friedsam treasurer. A report which showed the following increase in the work of the Excise Department in four years, was presented by Mr. Friedsam:

THE MYERS-GLORGE RACES. From an Interview with W. G. George in The London Telegraph,

Prom an Interview with W. G. George in The London Telegraph,

Dec. 26.

"Sports are carried on in a precisely similar way as with us, but the public do not attend in anything like such large numbers. A meeting in Now-York is considered a good one it 500 people are present. About 3.000 people were present at each of my three races with Myers, and this was thought something wonderini and 'quite out of the way. The story about 210,000 changing hands over the mile race is quite an exaggeration; it would be nearer the mark to say about $10,000.

"In the half-mile race with Myers he went off in front, and took a two yards' lead in the first fifty yards. He kept ahead of me all the way from two yards to ten yards till in the straight for home, and then he turned round in his usual (assison and looked at me all down the straight to the winning-post. I believe that if he were run out he could do very hear I min. 54 sec. for the halfmile, and he could have beaten me by from hiteen yards mile, and he could have beaten me by from litteen yards to twenty yards had he chosen to rul out all the way. I never expected to win the half-inde, and was not disappointed when I was beaten.

"In the mile race I never feet more it in my life, and I feel confident that if it had been necessary I could have done better time than my present record of 4 mm. 194 sec. When we started off I took the lead, and kept it all through. I did not run ready hard till going up the buckstretch in the last lap, and when I got to the top of it I ensed up again, and went at an easy pace till about thirty yards from the corner into the straight for home. Myers was these close behind, and catching me, and I at once ran just as hard as I could for sixty yards. Finding Myers was beaten I trotted down the straight to the finish. nish.

Myers was beaten i trotted down the straight to the finish.

"With regard to the unpleasantness that was created over the three-quarter mile race. I do not care to refer to it very much, as the thing was amost ameanly settled before I left New-York. Myers and I paried the best of friends, and I should not have that anything that I might say about it should be the means of disturbing the pleasant feeling that now exists between Myers and myself and the Manhattan Club and the Moseley Harriers... A second meeting was hold, and a fresh race was definitely fixed for Thanksgiving Day. On the sunday previous to that date it began to show, and it showed more or less aimost every day. In consequence of this I could not train, and I had not my racing shoes on once the whole of the week. Myers went-down to lialtimore and trained there. I believe he was running all the week and gained about six pounds during the time. From what he said, and from what his friends said, he was feeling quite well again, but I do not believe he was quite up to the mark, because I think he was overtrained. A tremendous lot of men were put on to clear the track on the Weinerday night, and they got it pretty well swept for the race. On the part, however, where the sun's rays had not failen the surface was as hard as stone and slippery. The spikes would not go in at all, but shipped off sharply. On the parts where the sun had thawed the ground there were many patches with quite two inches of soft earth and loose shows, and my snoes almost stuck last at times. Altogether the track was in a irrigatinally bad condition, and a great cold wind was blowing up the backstretch. As in the unle, we got off pretty weil, and ran about half a mile together. We went down the straight into the last lap, neck and neck, and then I got the lead. I was in frost after that from two yards to four yards. About fifty yards from home I thought I would never get to the tape at all, but then I must have been going faster than Myers, for I won by about six yards is 3 min. 1

4 sec. "The ten-mile bandicap was eighty laps to the dis-"The ten-mile bandicap was eighty laps to the distance, with twenty-two numers. I could not tell you where I was at the lines, but I was told that I had got a place and alterward that I was second. I was firmly under the impression that I had lapped everybody that after the impression that I had lapped everybody that after the major short. He made five laps in his three minutes start, and I am under the impression that I passed him two laps short. He made five laps in his three minutes start, and I am under the impression that I passed him three lines, while in the last laps to passed me. That left me about one and a half laps to the good, and yet I had six laps to go after he finished. I may be inistaken, however. I had been out for about a fortnight making noiday, and I went with the intention only of beating the American record. I ran to time, therefore, and beat the record by 30 seconds. I could have done the distance in a minute or two less than I did. My object in going over to America was to endeavor to beat Myers in a sportsmantlike way, and simply for the honor of beating him. If he comes over to England I fear the wont run me any more inlieraces; he said he would not and I think he will only want to run me at one distance, the three-quarter mile. I think we are very close together, and if we were to run the three races over again I should not like to say who would win the rubber. It is about 10 to 1 on Myers for the half-mile, 10 to 1 on me for the mile, and a toss-up between us for the three-quarters."
